GERMAN LOSSES IN SAAR-PALATINATE MAY APPROACH 100,000; VAST MOPPING-UP OPERATION UNDER WAY; U. S. 1ST ARMY HAMMERS AT S. APPROACH TO RUHR

Allies Now Control 300 Miles of Rhine's West Bank

OPTIMISM IS GROWING

German Losses in Saar Area "Catastrophic;" End of War Believed Near

By International News Service
Troops of the American First Army fighting at the Remagen bridgehead hammered at the southern approaches of the Ruhr today after gains of three miles carried them to the banks of the Sieg river along a seven-mile front.

A vast mopping-up operation was under way in the Saar-Palatinate where Nazi pockets were being cleaned out and German losses may approach 100,000.

Third Army forces surged through Ludwigshafen, the Nazis' last great city on the Rhine, giving Allied forces control of 300 miles of the Rhine's west bank, with the exception of one strip of about 30 miles.

Supreme Allied headquarters described German losses in the Saar as catastrophic.

INS Correspondent Frank Coniff reported from the Ninth Army front that there was a growing optimism among the Americans preparing to smash into the heart of the Nazi Reich. Nearly everybody feels, he said, that the end of the European war may be in sight.

Principal German resistance in the shattered Saar was in the vicinity of Neunkirchen, which was encircled by the junction of the American Third and Seventh Armies, and at the eastern end of the Siegfried Line extending from Saarbrücken to the Rhine. This section the Germans were attempting desperately to hold, to provide an escape route for any Germans in the Saar who have not yet been killed or captured.

Heavy bombers of the RAF were over Germany again today, following through on the constant "round-the-clock" Allied bombing of the Nazi Reich. Today's assaults carried the continuous air war into its 28th consecutive day, while two RAF Mosquito raids on Berlin last night marked the 30th straight night of attacks on the German capital.

On the eastern front, Red army troops slowly diminished the German positions.

Leading Clubs To Close In New York at Midnight

NEW YORK, Mar. 22.—New York City's Tempest of the Curfew resolved last night into a decision by leading night clubs, restaurants, cafes and hotels to ignore Mayor F. H. LaGuardia's "extra hour of tolerance" and to go along with the rest of the nation on midnight closing.

On the heels of Army and Navy directives, ordering servicemen to leave places of entertainment by midnight, the Allied Food and Entertainment Industries of Greater New York voted to shut doors at 12 o'clock as requested by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes three weeks ago.

The association's members, including such well known night spots as Leon and Eddie's, the 21 Club, the Versailles, Cafe Zanzibar, Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe, and Jack Dempsey's restaurant, have been staying open until 1 a. m. along with taverns and hotels since the Mayor announced in his weekly radio talk Sunday that the midnight curfew would not "work in New York City."

NAZI-HELD TERRITORY IN SAAR PALATINATE IS REDUCED TO LITTLE MORE THAN A BRIDGEHEAD

Paris—Nazi-held territory in the Saar Palatinate was reduced today to little more than a bridgehead as American forces cleared the Trier-Kien-Kaiferslautern triangle and completed the destruction of an estimated nine German divisions.

Disorganized Germans remaining west of the Rhine were herded into a dwindling pocket running 35 miles from east to west and 19 miles from north to south.

At least 80,000 Germans in the diamond formed by the Saar, Moselle and Rhine rivers have been accounted for and some military observers believe Nazi losses may run to 100,000.

The Point Pleasant Fire Company answered four calls over the week-end, three grass fires and another at Ralph Stover Park, where a refreshment stand was burned, causing a loss of approximately $2,000.

At the park fire the Plumsteadville Fire Company was also summoned. The cause of the fire has not as yet been determined. The park does not open for the season until Memorial Day, but there was a caretaker at the park, according to firemen.

Two grass fires occurred in the village on Sunday, but no damage occurred. On Saturday afternoon a hot cinder from a passing locomotive started a fire near Byram, N. J., that for a time threatened a house.

Under the supervision of William Cook, chairman of the fish committee of the Bucks County Fish and Game Association, assisted by George Housell and Charles Selner, 1600 trout were placed in Mill Creek near Doylestown during the past week.

News in Brief - - -

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22.—Baseball got another break in a decision by the War Manpower Commission that players may return to the game from off-season employment, such as war plant jobs.

The WMC said, in effect, that baseball is the principal business of these men, in most instances and that they have the right to work at it.

Under this ruling most players, coaches and managers may leave off-season jobs and go back to the diamond without asking for a certificate of availability or referral card under the WMC's job program.

It is also believed that the Republican majority will pass finally the Becker-Dent municipal authorities bill.

Elect Paul S. Bryan, Perkase, As Pres't; Committees Named

SEVERAL SPEAKERS

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 22.—At the annual session of Bucks County Guernsey Breeders' Association, held here Tuesday, Paul S. Bryan, of Perkase, was elected president. He succeeds Russell E. Smith, of Wycombe.

There were 75 in attendance at the meeting, with other officers named being: Vice-president, Arthur G. Kinney, Holicon; secretary-treasurer, Harrison Myers, Chalfont; and directors, William F. Fritz, Pipersville; E. F. Stewart, Colmar; and Russell E. Smith, Wycombe.

Three committees were named, one to further the study and betterment of the Guernsey breed in Bucks county, another to promote Guernsey interests among Four-H Club members and a third to organize the Bucks county Guernsey breeders' cattle sales.

Following dinner the president introduced William Frew, president of the Pennsylvania Guernsey Breeders' Association, and E. S. Warren, secretary-treasurer of the Montgomery County Guernsey Breeders' Association, as guests.

Earl Schultz, field representative of American Guernsey Cattle Club, gave a short talk, the subject of which was "Selling Our Breed." In this connection he called attention to the extensive advertising campaign of the Golden Guernsey Association.

William Juzi, field secretary of the Penna. Guernsey Breeders' Association, gave a brief resume of the activities of the association.

Much interest was shown by the members in the presentation of plans for mow hay driers. Bruce Fearn, Chalfont, an agriculture engineering representative of a well-known electric company, brought many helpful plans to the attention of the members of the association. Because the hay mow drier has been so perfected as to be within financial range of the farmer, the members considered it a very timely subject.

Mr. Fearn, at the close of his talk, answered numerous questions asked him by the farmers.

WHO OWES WHAT TO WHOM?

Many people believe the subject of national finances is too complicated to be understood by Mr. Average Citizen.

If this is true, it is not only a most severe criticism of the American people as being the first intelligent nation which couldn't comprehend finances, but also a confession that democracy is a failure and an impossibility.

American citizens understood finances in the early days of the nation, when they accepted the foundations laid by Alexander Hamilton.

They understood them reasonably well when national banking became an issue under Andrew Jackson, and when free silver was the question at the turn of the century, and in the early days of the New Deal when President Roosevelt was driven reluctantly, by public sentiment, to accept Senator Vandenberg's proposal to insure bank accounts.

Can they do so again? Upon their ability to grasp the financial problems of the present, and to insist that the proper remedies be applied, lie the future of America and the value of the money, property and investments of the American people.

All nations need to borrow money at times—occasions always arise in which it is impossible to wait for taxes to come in, or when the needs exceed the visible revenues.

Nations borrow where they can—from local or foreign bankers, or from other nations. Sometimes the loans come directly from the people themselves, with bonds for repayment being exchanged by the government.

Debt itself is not necessarily wrong. The error comes when the debt is allowed to become higher than the value of the government and nation upon which the loan rests, or when the debt is allowed to accumulate with no effort at repayment.

The remark attributed to President Roosevelt that we should not worry about our national debt "because we owe it to ourselves" is true only in a narrow sense.

Anyone tempted to take the remark seriously needs only consider how he would like to see his bank accounts, savings, investments and War Bonds wiped out by repudiation.

That result is exactly what was implied by the comment.

And that is the inevitable final result of any national financial program which doesn't cover repayment of the debt.

Repayment can be avoided by the government in several ways, but they all boil down to inflation or repudiation.

Replacement of American currency by some other form of money, or a step-by-step program of reducing the value of money, are simply forms of repudiation and inflation. So is the idea which many New Dealers are toying with—of placing such rigid restraints upon the use of money that it will lose its value. That is a plan which both Germany and Russia tried.

The savings of the American people are estimated as being upwards of $150,000,000,000. Most of this is held in small lots, and virtually all Americans have some of it. It is the greatest nest-egg in history.

But this money is not really liquid—it only seems to be at the moment because no one can spend it.

Every cent of it is tied up in the war debt, and every

OPINION AFFIRMED BY SUPREME COURT

Affirms the Adjudication of Judge Boyer in Springs-Hawkes Case

TRIAL WAS LENGTHY

DOYLESTOWN, Mar. 22.—The Supreme Court this week handed down an opinion affirming the opinion of Judge Calvin S. Boyer and affirming his adjudication as chancellor in equity in the case of Gertrude Weaver Spring (formerly Davidson), of Radcliffe street, Bristol, against Thomas G. Hawkes, of Edgely, which for the past three years has attracted much attention by reason of its complicated facts, the length of the trial, and the volume of the record evidence.

The case involved charges by the plaintiff of alleged mismanagement by the defendant of a voluntary trust created in 1920 in the handling of the corporate affairs of Ward-Davidson Co., engaged in the manufacture of Turkish towels and similar textiles, one of the factories being located in Philadelphia and another at Perkase.

Judge Boyer, in a 113-page adjudication, dismissed the plaintiff's bill, after which the Court of Common Pleas sustained his adjudication in an opinion written by Judge Boyer.

The Supreme Court in an eight-page opinion by Mr. Justice Lynn sustains the chancellor's 363 findings of facts, basing its action largely upon the chancellor's adjudication.

The trial lasted 29 days. It was the longest case of any kind in Bucks County courts. During the litigation there were eight Philadelphia and three Bucks County lawyers interested in the trial.

Lt. (J.G.) Charles Wilkie Pleased With Red Cross

CROYDON, Mar. 22.—Lt. (J. G.) Charles F. Wilkie, is high in his praise of the American Red Cross. Lt. Wilkie, who is stationed in the Pacific area, and his wife and daughter who have been living in San Diego, Cal., have been aided considerably by the Red Cross in a number of details. Lt. Wilkie writes his mother, Mrs. William Wilkie, here.

Lt. and Mrs. Wilkie have a daughter, Joan, aged three years, who was born during the Japanese raid on Pearl Harbor, T. H. It is belief of physicians, state the Wilkies, that the child suffered an injury at the time of birth, which took place at the height of the raid. Two days later physicians discovered that she is a spastic paralytic victim.

Just recently, when plans were being made to have little Joan enter a hospital-school for special training in an attempt to gain use of her limbs, the Red Cross did all in its power to arrange a leave for Lt. Wilkie, so he might be at home during the transfer of the child from San Diego to Santa Barbara, and be able to visit her and his wife. The Red Cross also aided in arranging a leave last year. Lt. Wilkie states: "The Red Cross has done a 'hang-up' job for the servicemen and their families," he comments in a letter to his mother, "and I certainly am pleased you are supporting such a good cause, mother. Keep up the good work."

Recently Pvt. S. Crossley, of Croydon, and Lt. Wilkie met in San Diego, the former spending a few days at the Wilkie home before returning to duty.

LIFE UNEXCITING TO HEATH UNTIL EIGHT MONTHS AGO

Outfit of Aviation Engineers Then Moved North on The Heelsof Big Rome Drive

IN EGYPT AND LIBYA

Helped Build Airfields From Which Ploesti Attack Was Launched

WITH THE AVIATION ENGINEERS SOMEWHERE IN ITALY, Mar. 22.—Life to George Heath of Bristol, Pa., had been pretty unexciting up until about eight months ago when his outfit of aviation engineers moved north on the heels of the big Rome drive. He had merely battled desert storms from Camp Young, Cal. (Gen. Patton's old stomping grounds) through Egypt and Libya, after seeing about two-thirds of the world in between, had, under extremely adverse conditions, helped build the fields from which one morning in August, 1943, was launched the now historic Ploesti attack, and from which, one month later, Italy was pounded into submission; and had, by constructing a series of bomber bases up and down the "Boot," rendered our air power effective over a wide European front.

Sgt. Heath was probably expecting something to break when his outfit drove through Rome a week after it was captured and ended up by panning down the backs of our advancing forces. Its big job, of course, was to build fighter fields close to the front lines to afford tactical aerial support to the ground push to harass the enemy, and sever his lines of communication. There was one problem, however, that had to be dealt with promptly before the earth-moving bulldozers could come in and commence operations. The Nazis had gutted the entire Italian countryside with mines prior to their retreat, and this grave potential danger had to be eliminated with the utmost possible dispatch.

A mine disposal crew was immediately formed from members of the battalion, and George Heath was among those assigned to this new undertaking. Most of the work was to consist of clearing proposed airfield sites. But in the course of six weeks they did every job that came along. At one point they cleared a dirt road so that an Italian mule train could pass. Another time they cleaned up a beach so that troops could bathe in safety. On this occasion they were captured by members of their own infantry. Since they were working in a by-passed area the infantry commander who spotted them naturally assumed them to be Germans.

From the mine-cleared area a string of fighter fields was quickly leveled out. But upon returning to his company they discovered that other extremely important operations had been quietly taking place in their absence. A system of new strips had sprung up on which a multitude of gliders and troop-carriers came to roost. One August morning these planes set out on what was to be a one-way flight to newly-occupied coastline of Southern France.

Faith Clarke's SHOPPING TIPS FOR BUDGETEERS

TEEN "TOPPERS" are the clever three-quarter coats that show the lower parts of skirts or dresses. These are about the most popular coats of the new season for sub-debs and sophisticated matrons alike. Consequently, teen-agers consider them "just right." The 100% wool toppers in the Snellenburg Teen Shop are outstanding at $25. The girls appreciate the assortment of pastels and are quite goofy over the new gray chalk-stripes. They can take their pick of plain or velvet collars. Sizes 10 to 16. (2nd fl.)

SPRING FEET should be akin to dancing feet—light, gay, pretty, infinitely comfortable. Those of you who have not tried one of the many Gold Cross shoe lasts now have an unusual opportunity to do so. The Snellenburg Shoe Dept. has, considering the Duration, an unusually wide selection of Gold Cross styles for women in black, red, brown and even blue! These include all styles and are quite goofy over the new gray chalk-stripes. They can take their pick of plain or velvet collars. Sizes 10 to 16. (2nd fl.)

"THE DRESS" for Easter should be just as good as you can possibly afford. That's why I suggest, and recommend, the Better Dress Shop on the second floor of the Snellenburg Store. Here the prices are $16.95 to $49.95, in sizes 12 to 20. There are both one- and two-piece models along the newest lines. Very intriguing are the latest navy and black sheaths with the season's approved touches of color, short peplums, tunics, etc. You will be interested in the form-fitting boleros, jacket style prints, new shantings in black and summer shades. And a tip—this Better Dress Dept. is noted for its lovely bridal gowns and bridesmaid dresses! (2nd fl.)

PERFECT SYMBOL of Easter is the tight, homely little garden bulb that finally flowers into incredible beauty. So what more appropriate as an Easter gift to someone you love, or even someone who seems even not to deserve love, but sorely needs it? It is such a simple matter. Listen! That inclusive Garden Corner of the Snellenburg Store now has large gladioli bulbs of those exquisite varieties—salmon Picardy, white Maid of Orleans, Golden Dream, red flaming Swords, lavender Minuet, etc. They are but 89c a dozen. You may have a dozen of mixed varieties if you like. Order them by phone or mail or carry them home. Then make them up in little gift packages—of three to a dozen each. (1st fl.)

YOU OWE IT to yourself to have at least one fine girdle, corset or foundation a year—and, surely, spring is the accepted time. I am delighted with—as you will be—the lightly boned "Fleur-de-lis" step-in girdles the Snellenburg Corset Dept. has actually been able to obtain for us in this time of shortages. Each is of strong rayon satin and is equipped with generous elastic panels, rubber garters, and—believe it or not—real Talon side closings! Perhaps I have kept the best for the last—the Fleur-de-lis has a down-stretch back! This good-looking garment is 16" length, for slight and medium figures. Well worth $16.95. (2nd fl.)

SETTLE the matter of candies for Easter. The Snellenburg Candy Dept. are all fixed up for the occasion. Shop early, however, if you want some of this store's famous Heller "Luxury" chocolates at $1.49 a lb. The assortment is simply luscious, including creams, nuts, fruits, crisp, chewy, hard centers, etc. Little Easter play-bunnies with candies, for the children, cost $2.49 and $3.95. Well-stocked departments. (1st fl.—Market and Chestnut Sts. stores.)

SLIMMER is it you would be? I know of a spring coat that will make you appear so, a dressmaker type of coat in soft wool crepe, at $49.95, in sizes 12 to 20 and 28 to 44. I seem to make hips disappear! Side closings, two buttons. Molded "skirt," softly filled upper. Cleverly without applied ornament. Tall women, too, like the break of the "diminishing" waistline. Navy, black, green, blue, shocking pink. Snellenburg Coat Dept. (2nd fl.)

IT'S A COMFORT to have so many hats in one place from which to select that you don't have to shop all over town. Just now the big second floor Millinery Dept. in the Snellenburg Store is in its Easter glory, ready for you and me and every vain female. Clever stylists select these hats, and prices are adapted to different budgets—$5.75, $6.75, $7.75, $8.75. Some of the best-dressed women in town purchase Snellenburg Spring hats in threes! (2nd fl.)

P.S. Shop at this friendly store—Market from 11th to 12th, thru to 1125-29 Chestnut St., Phila. Or order by mail. Or 'phone free (5c, 10c and 15c out-of-town calls only.) Clippings appreciated. Penna. number, ENTERPRISE 10160; New Jersey, WX-1150. Cheerio! Faithfully, FAITH.

Life Unexciting To Heath Until Eight Months Ago

Heath, who is now 34, is a native of Bristol. He received his civilian background training for his many and varied army jobs. After graduating Bristol High School in 1935 he ran a milk business. In April of 1942 he joined the armed forces. He received his basic at Langley Field, Virginia, then shipped to Camp Young where he was prepared for desert warfare. Early in 1943 (he recently celebrated his second anniversary overseas), he sailed out from an American port and did a tour of duty in the Pacific before landing in Libya and Italy.

At present Heath is engaged in winterizing the various fighter and bomber fields strewn throughout Italy. He is, however, looking forward to a busy Spring, when a new push may presage new and more interesting experiences.

tailed only 32 per cent. The gain was being 13.5 per cent since yesterday.

Fleetwings employees now have reached 66 per cent of their goal of $10,000 while yesterday they had reached 64.50 per cent, gaining 1.5 per cent.

The race continues unabated and each group is determined to be the first to reach their goal.

Approximately $10,600 is still needed for the entire Bristol area if the quota of $56,600 is to be reached. The total figures reported today for the Bristol area is $16,947.46.

tried in court for working in their gardens on Sunday.

One of the ancestors of Mrs. Herman Barnsley, Newtown, was a member of Congress, and was added to Washington. Mrs. Arwin Clark's great-great-aunt was Frances Slocum, who was stolen by the Indians when a child, and who was not found until late in life. She, however, preferred to remain in Indian territory. Mrs. Edwin Taylor told of the parks and places around Lancaster that carry the Slocum name.

During the business session Mrs. Thomas Devlin told of having sent two boxes to a school in the South, and Mrs. Herman Barnsley announced the president general of the D. A. R. had cancelled the Continental Congress meeting that was to have been held in Washington next month. She also informed the group that all State Congress meetings will be cancelled because of the transportation conditions.

man pockets of resistance on the northern flank.

Russian troops in the Danzig-Gdynia area pushed to within six miles of Danzig, capturing the town of Klein-Beolkan, while other forces pushed north of the city to within two and one-half miles of Danzig Bay in a drive to isolate Gdynia.

German-held territory southwest of Koenigsberg in East Prussia was slowly decreased as Soviet forces battled the Germans less than one-half mile south of Heiligenbeil, the last remaining center of German resistance after the fall of Braunsberg.

Northeast of Berlin, Russian artillery pounded the port of Stettin from positions in captured Altdamm, less than four miles to the east across the Oder estuary.

The Germans reported that to the south, Russian forces on the Kues-trin-Frankfort stretch of the Oder were fighting to bridge the river directly east of the German capital.

Harrisburg

By International News Service
HARRISBURG, Mar. 22—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Legislative Correspondents' Association will observe its 50th anniversary April 3 with a dinner completely minus the frivolity and gaiety of past biennial dinners. Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson has agreed to an off-the-record talk to newspapermen and legislators marking the Association's half-century on Capitol Hill. The anniversary year was marked by the admittance of women to membership. The Association is the oldest of its kind in the nation and antedates the White House Correspondents' Association.

The Association is subject to the rules of the House of Representatives but no legislator or official exercises any control over what is written. To be eligible for membership, newspapermen must be regularly assigned to the Capitol Hill beat or legislative sessions by a daily newspaper or wire service. Newspapermen representing weekly papers are not eligible for membership. The Commonwealth maintains a large newsroom in the main capitol building for the convenience of correspondents but has no authority over newspapermen.

In a move to accelerate necessary legislation, Republican chiefs have agreed to begin a four-day work week in the General Assembly beginning March 26. Although the agreement was aimed at speeding final adjournment by mid-April, many lawmakers feel that it will be some time in May before the final gavel falls. Minority leader Hiram G. Andrews of Cambria, said no one knew how fast the legislature would work and therefore didn't expect sine die adjournment by April 15. "We can't leave it to hang in mid-air," Andrews stated. Ten weeks have passed since the legislature convened with the sessions limited to three days, ostensibly because of the difficulty in printing bills.

Administration leaders feel confident the Senate Mines and Mining Committee will give favorable recommendation to the House-approved Brunner Anti-Silt Bill even though the committee membership is largely from coal-producing areas. Rep. Ellwood J. Turner (R) Delaware, chairman of the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River basin and a proponent of clean streams, asserted in a telegram to Capitol Hill newsmen that "criticism" had been leveled at Senate President Pro Tempore M. Harvey Taylor, of Dauphin, for the Mines and Mining Committee referring the Brunner measure to instead of the public health group.

It appeared that Turner was attempting to get in the first blow before pure stream opponents could rally forces to weaken the measure in the upper chamber. The Senate, however, was expected to amend the anti-silt bill to remove a clause authorizing the Sanitary Water Board and Mines Department to control the "extension" of mines.

Proud of WHOSE boys, did you say?

HERE they are, America. We've picked four typical names — names you might find in the roster of almost any U. S. Army regiment—and drawn you a picture to fit.

From top to bottom, fighting for our country, they are: Schultz, Bianchi, Cohn and Smith.

Schultz, Bianchi, Cohn and Smith—all OUR boys? Well, of course, there are lots of people who'd give you an argument about that.

Hitler would argue that Schultz is a German because his father was, and where do we get off calling him ours?

Some Fascist would snarl, "Bianchi is Italian. Bianchi ought to be fighting on the other side."

As for Cohn, there are some bigots who'd want to rule him out just because his name is Cohn.

That leaves us Smith. Is he the only one of these we have a right to be proud of?

Not if we understand what America really is!

Strange— isn't it—how readily people abroad do understand it, in spite of what their leaders tell them?

Let Schultz, or Bianchi, or Cohn or Smith walk down a street in Europe, and people will say of him, "There goes a typical American soldier."

There's something in the step, the bearing, the easy good nature, the confidence of men who know they are born free and equal, that's unmistakable, different—American!

Yes, they are our boys, all right—all four of them. And they're proving it by the way they're fighting for us.

Let's prove that we understand America, too. And that what we all have together is bigger than the fact that their fathers were foreigners—bigger even than the fact that Schultz is a Protestant, Bianchi a Catholic, Cohn a Jew, or the fact that Smith may be Negro or White.

And if any one slanders any of these by slandering the group to which he belongs, let's prove how proud we are of all our boys by telling the slanderers, right out loud, just where they get off!

Be American!

WHO OWES WHAT TO WHOM?

ent of it would be lost if the government fails to repay the debt.

Bank accounts and currency? The commercial and Federal Reserve banks hold $96,000,000,000 in War Bonds or the equivalent. These are listed as assets, but they are valuable only if they are going to be repaid. They are a first mortgage on our banking system and our currency.

Insurance companies hold $19,500,000,000 of such obligations, Federal agencies and trust funds $21,750,000,000, and individuals $52,000,000,000. Business houses and other miscellaneous associations have $28,000,000,000.

If this resource can be kept liquid and used wisely for the purpose, it is more than enough to re-establish the economy of the nation on a "free enterprise" basis and on the greatest scale in our history.

But that means government economy to the point where it is obvious to everyone that the war debt will be paid.

Anything else is a program of inflation and repudiation—and the holders of the bag will be the people who loaned money to Uncle Sam to fight the war or for other government purposes.

The debt limit is now $300,000,000,000, or about $2200 for every man, woman and child in the country. Probably will be raised again long before the year is out.

The amount is of special interest because it is the sum often given as representing the value of the nation—a going concern, or at least, the value of all the property in the country.

Only those willing to gamble with bankruptcy and disaster, and with the loss by the American people of virtually all their property, call for a financial program that parts anywhere except with plans to hold this debt down to a minimum and to begin repaying it as soon as humanly possible.

RECIPES

Ham 'n Biscuit Shortcake
Serves Leftovers In Style

You'll go a long way to find better eating than a ham 'n biscuit shortcake! In fact, rich hot biscuits combined with any meat are a treat. Unlike the hard, flat cakes at Martha Washington called "skettles," these rich biscuits made with lard are tender and light as hot bread can be.

Make the biscuits for meat shortcake extra-large—about four inches across. Or cut them square or diamond-shaped. And sometimes add rich cooked meats as sliced beef, pork, or frizzled dried beef, crisp bacon strips or salt pork pieces with old-fashioned milk gravy.

Use the biscuit-meat combination any time—as ham and biscuit shortcake or as beef or ham biscuit rolls, creamed beef and liver on biscuits, or biscuit-topped meat pie.

Ham 'n Biscuit Short Cake
6 slices ham, cooked

4 tablespoons hot meat drippings
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
Seasoning
Baking powder biscuits
Brown ham slices in hot fat. Remove from skillet and keep hot while blending flour with fat. Add milk, stirring constantly, and cook until thick. Season. Put hot ham slices between biscuits, and top with hot gravy. Serves 5 or 6.

Baking Powder Biscuits
2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
4 to 6 tablespoons lard
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk (about)
Sift flour again with baking powder and salt. Cut in lard until mixture has fine even crumb. Add enough milk to make soft dough. Turn on lightly floured surface and knead gently for 1/2 minute. Pat or roll 1/2 inch thick and cut with large biscuit cutter—about 4-inches in diameter. Place on baking sheet and bake at 450 degrees F. for 15 minutes. Makes 5 or 6 large biscuits.

Beef Biscuit Roll
1 pound beef chuck
1/2 cup chopped onion

1/2 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons drippings
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 recipe biscuit dough

Brown beef, onion and green pepper in hot drippings in skillet. Add seasonings. Make biscuit dough according to above recipe. Roll on floured board to about 1/4-inch thickness. Brush with melted drippings. Spread with meat mixture and roll like jelly roll. If dough is too soft, chill in refrigerator first, then cut in 1 1/2-inch slices. Place on greased pan, cut side up, brush top with melted fat. Bake 20-25 minutes at 450 degrees F. Serve with brown gravy or cheese sauce. Serves 5-6.

Hot Ham Rolls

1 recipe biscuit dough
2 cups ground ham
2 cups thin white sauce
2 tablespoons minced parsley
Make biscuit dough according to above recipe. Roll into rectangle 1/4-inch thick. Mix enough white sauce with the ham to make a thick paste. Spread on the dough. Roll up as for jelly roll. Cut into 1-inch pieces. Place on greased pan, cut side up. Bake 25 minutes at 400 degrees F. Serve hot, topped with white sauce. Sprinkle with parsley.

Clam Chowder

1 dozen clams
4 tblsp chopped onion
2 tblsp fat
3 cups cooked potatoes, cut in cubes

1 1/2 tsp salt
1/2 tsp pepper
4 cups scalded milk
2 tblsp flour
Strain liquor from clams and set it aside. Clean and pick over clams, removing all particles of shell. Chop fine and put into a saucepan with the liquor. Cook 10 minutes. Fry onion in fat until a delicate brown and strain fat into the clams. Add potatoes, salt, pepper and milk and bring to the boiling point. Mix flour with a little cold water to make a smooth paste, and add to the chowder. Stir gently until it thickens. Serve at once.

Egg Souffle

3 egg yolks
1 cup medium white sauce
1 tblsp chopped parsley
3 egg whites
Add beaten egg yolks to the white sauce, and add the parsley. Cool. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Put into a greased baking

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS By FRANK R. KENT

German Reparations Washington, March 21. SO FAR as Germany is concerned, the most convincing proof that she is a completely beaten nation lies in the unobtrusive appointment by the Allies of a reparations commission in Moscow. There is something in the finality about that than any other Yalta announcement.

WHEN they begin to compute the bill, its significance ought to penetrate even the thickest German mentality. It ought to make the recent Hitler talk of "our ultimate triumph" seem foolish. It ought to convince them—if the fact is permitted to get through—that there is no hope left. In the language of the old circus man, "the monkey's dead and the show's over."

NEVERTHELESS, creation of a reparations commission and plans for its early meeting raise a number of interesting questions to which no one appears to have the answers. For example, it is natural to ask how such a commission can do even "exploratory and advisory" work without far more definite knowledge than is now available. First, it would seem that before reparations can be considered either as to "extent" or "character," we must make up our minds exactly what we are going to do with Germany once we have conquered her. Until we know what kind of Germany there will be when the fighting is over, even the beginnings of the reparations problems cannot be intelligently dealt with.

is raw and manufactured materials and not in money. The utility of demanding money reparations was proven last time. As to reparations "in kind," obviously these can only be paid by an industrially productive Germany. We do not know how much we want that kind of Germany, whether, even if we want it, that kind of a Germany will be possible for a long time, or whether it ever will be possible unless we help make it so.

NONE of these things will be determined until the war is over. Until then, it seems absurd to consider the "extent and character" of reparations. Until we know the capacity of Germany to produce, nothing can be done. That the commission is to meet in Moscow is construed generally as meaning that Russia proposes, because of the damage inflicted upon her by the Germans, to claim the larger share of reparations. But Russia will not be the only one with a large bill. The British have suffered very heavily and have justification for a big claim. So have all the liberated nations: France, Holland, Denmark, Belgium, Poland and Norway.

IF THERE are reparations, all of these have got to be recognized and paid. The question arises as to how even a rebuilt industrial Germany is going to meet the demands. Also, how industrial production will be affected by the proposal (spoken in favorably of by Mr. Roosevelt), of taking to Russia a million Germans to rebuild the Soviet's devastated cities. Also, if Russia is permitted to profit through the "slave-labor" device, would not the other damaged nations be proportionately entitled to similar reparations in conscripted manpower? Perhaps Mr. B. M. Baruch, who is going to England for the President on an "economic mission," may shed some light on these things. However, the problems that loom ahead in this reparations business seem very grave indeed. Certainly, not even a beginning can be made until, first, the facts about the postwar German economic machine are known; second, until our own minds have been made up as to postwar policy toward a prostrate Germany.

CONSIDERING these things, Secretary of State Stettinius seems a trifle overoptimistic when he declares his confidence that the reparations commission, on which we are represented by Dr. Isador Lubin, will shortly "develop a sound program of reparations." If it can do that before the facts above referred to are available (and they will not be available for some months to come) it will have performed a miracle. Incidentally, though Dr. Lubin's appointment as our reparations representative was announced by Secretary Stettinius, he was not selected by Mr. Stettinius. Like many other appointments announced by Mr. Stettinius, he was picked by someone else. In this case the someone else appears to be Mr. Harry Hopkins, to whom Dr. Lubin is close and who, it is said, made him statistician to the combined chiefs of staff.

SAVE SLIP COVERS BY PROVIDING CARE THEY SHOULD HAVE

By Mary Jacoby Fleetham (Home Economics Representative) With army needs for tentage and other cotton textiles on the increase, few chairs and sofas will get new slip cover outfits this spring. So, to keep slip covers now in use looking and wearing their best, these cleaning and mending tips are offered: Hang slip covers up to air occasionally—outdoors if possible. Beat some dirt sifts through, clean upholstery underneath while the covers are off. Brush or vacuum covers weekly. Washing is better than dry cleaning for preshrunk, colorfast materials. To check colorfastness, sew a sample (which includes all the fabric colors, and some of the trimmings) to a piece of white material. Wash thoroughly, using the same method as for the slip cover itself, and press. Then rip from white material and see if color has "bled." The once-common custom of soaking fabric in vinegar or salt solution to set colors is useless.

When only arms or back of slip cover are soiled, they may be cleaned separately. Place slip cover wrong side out on an old soft bath towel, folded two or three times. Rub spots with dry-cleaning fluid. Work from seam line to seam line to avoid leaving rings. To keep a "new" look in slip covers, iron them on the wrong side. Baste pleats in place along the lower edge before washing—it makes ironing easier. Iron, then rip out basting, and steam press to remove basting marks.

More Comfort Wearing FALSE TEETH

Here is a pleasant way to overcome loose plate discomfort. FASTEETH, an improved powder, sprinkled on upper and lower plates holds them firmer so that they feel more comfortable. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH today at any drug store.

"Tidies" can protect the main cover, save washing, lessen wear and postpone patching. Make them of left-over pieces of slip-cover material if cover was made at home, or of a different fabric in a subdued, harmonizing color. Slip-baste in place so they will be easy to take off and wash.

If a cover needs mending and no matching scraps are available, get material for patches or to recover worn chair arms, from a place that will not show—the underside of a cushion, or the outside back. Fabric removed for repairs can be replaced with some harmonizing material. To prevent puckering later, all new fabric for patches should be preshrunk before it is sewed to slip cover.
